Come out for a nice of fun
Creative Hands is a social club offered by Family Support. Instructors Dale and Kathy run the program with about 10 participants per session. Together, the group prepares meals or makes snacks. Some might be 100% food! Everyone is particularly thrilled when the pet therapy dog and chinchillas visit.

Regular participants of Creative Hands make suggestions for future activities. It’s an opportunity to cultivate friendships and interests at the same time. There are some fabulous projects lined up for 2015, including baking pies and cheesecakes and making your own hand/body scrubs.

Creative Hands is open to all individuals ages 16 and up who have developmental disabilities. The group meets on the first and third Wednesday of the month at the Main Street Adult Training Center. The class cost is $20 per night, which includes cost of materials.

Call Family Support at 732-240-3118 for more information or if you’re looking for fun, friendship, or respite.

Family Residence
James is a 41-year-old man with a developmental disability. In 2014, James moved into a group home, which is located in the heart of the city. The family members of the group home are all professionals and have been working with James for many years. They have already made many sacrifices to make James feel at home in their group home. The family members take care of James’s everyday needs, including his medical care, meals, and transportation to appointments. They also provide him with opportunities to participate in activities that he enjoys, such as going to the movies, going for walks, and attending social events. They make sure that James feels comfortable and safe in his new home. In addition, the family members also provide him with support and guidance as he learns to live independently. The family members are committed to helping James achieve his goals and to make sure that he has a fulfilling life.

New House and New Life
Making the transition from a group home to a new house was not an easy task. The staff at the Project group home played an important role in making the transition smooth for James. They provided counseling and support as James learned to live independently. The staff also helped him develop skills that he needed to live on his own. They taught him how to manage his finances, how to cook, and how to maintain his home. The staff also helped him understand the importance of being independent and taking responsibility for his own life.
